TEACHERS' FEEDBACK

LISTENING

The student is successful in improving the ability to comprehend and understand listening clips, while he generally selects accurate answers, there are instances where he overlooks the instructions and provides incorrect responses. Consequently, it is essential for him to be mindful of the given instructions in order to generate more accurate listening or writing responses.

READING

The student can provide more correct responses to sentence completion questions through figuring out the synonyms of the clues; however, answering worksheet reading questions is difficult for him, due to the presence of various contextual options. Therefore, it is advised that he follow the technique starting with matching the sentence structure, then checking whether the meaning of the sentence makes sense and ending with matching the clues with the ones in the passage.

WRITING

The student is able to describe and analyze trends. Also, he is able to use coherent devices. However, he fails to include reference to the figures given in the graphs, tables, or charts. Thus, the student needs to practice more on referencing and to should involve on pair writing activities.

SPEAKING

The student produces basic sentence forms with reasonable accuracy. Furthermore, he can manage to talk about familiar and unfamiliar topics with enough vocabulary to discuss the topics. However, his presentation contains errors and does not maintain throughout his speech. Thus, it is recommended that he focus on practicing using connectors and discourse markers when speaking. He can use online resources to be more familiar with these speech devices.

NOTE: The feedbacks are copied verbatim from your teachers' report.
